

From the earth beneath Hanbury Hall once grew the Greater Fecckenham Forest, a revered royal hunting ground, filled with many different species of trees including oak,
elm, ash and black poplars,
some of which remain today.

HANBURY HALL
Parkland

HANBURY HALL came to the Trust in 1953. Thanks to the support of National Trust members it has benefited from considerable conservation and restoration work, enabling us to endear Hanbury to increasing numbers of people. Sign up as a National Trust member in Visitor Reception today and help protect places you love, like Hanbury Hall.

DOGS: We love dogs at Hanbury but they can upset livestock and wildlife. If you decide to bring your four legged friend, please keep your dog on a short lead and remember to pick up after it.

PARKLAND: Walking through our parkland will take you through land used by our tenant farmers so, please don't wander off the paths marked on our map.

Leave Hanbury as you found it so others can get as much enjoyment as you. Please take any litter home with you, and make sure that if you open a gate you close it securely behind you.

If you're in need of assistance whilst out in the park, please call our Property Office on 01527 822100.

At the turn of the eighteenth century man
tamed this natural landscape.
Imposing upon it carefully constructed views through the planting of new, exotic tree species and the development of impressive landmarks, including the Semi-Circle and tree lined avenues.

HANBURY HALL

400 acres of Grade II listed parkland

Since Hanbury Hall came to the Trust in 1953, the surrounding parkland has been gradually restored back to its impressive early eighteenth-century design; including work on the Semi-Circle, Long Walk and Lime Tree Walk.

Today you can enjoy walks that lead you through the remains of an ancient forest, past unusual design features and out into the beautiful Worcestershire countryside.

Blue Route

Easy going walk –
1.5km, 15-20 minutes*
(slight gradient)

This shorter, family friendly route will take you on a gentle stroll along oak lined avenues and out into open fields. These quiet spaces of the park are rich in wildlife; the perfect habitats for myriad species of birds, insects and other animals. Keep an eye out for the colourful Green Woodpecker who calls these trees home.

Grey Route

Steady stroll –
1.8km, 20-25 minutes*
(slight gradient)

This route will take you through the peaceful fields of the old deer park, with stunning views of the Worcestershire countryside. Along the way you'll pass many interesting and unusual eighteenth century design features including oak and lime avenues, the Semi-Circle and Brick Kiln Pond.

Orange Route

Leisurely ramble –
3.5km, 30-40 minutes*
(slight gradient)

This leisurely route will take you along avenues lined with majestic cedars and limes, past rare black poplars and into the remains of an ancient forest. Passing by a 'most beautiful oak' which, at close to 600 years old, is the oldest tree in the park. Along the way, discover how the restoration of this historic landscape continues with new plantations.
