Exceptional views from the Heysham Coast path

Introduction

Our Heysham Coast site is a beautiful sandstone headland renowned for its eighth-century chapel and rock hewn graves and peaceful woodland. This section of headland looking out over the stunning Morecambe Bay is a popular walk amongst visitors and local people offering views, wildlife and a glimpse at the ruined Saxon St Patrick's Chapel. There is a circular trail route which takes in the headland along with places of interest in the historic Heysham village itself.

Dogs are welcome on site therefore assistance dogs are welcome.

NB - Please note that mobile reception is quite good across the whole site however if there is a problem in an emergency please contact emergency services.

Arrival & Parking Facilities

The National Trust does not own a car park at Heysham although there is the village car park which is operated by Lancaster City Council (LA3 2RW). This car park has a height barrier of 2m and is Pay and Display. There are 210 spaces with designated disabled parking. There is a short walk down the Main Street in Heysham towards St Peter's Church and the start of the National Trust walking route.

Footpath surfaces nearer to the National Trust site are good with some steep cobbled sections climbing up to St Patrick's Chapel and also some stone steps in Rectory Woods which can be slippery after rain. There are gates at either end of the headland walk which is along a grassy path. The path down from the headland walk to the beach can be rutted and slippery when wet.
