Introduction

1. Trerice is a small Cornish manor house accessible by narrow lanes.
2. Mobile phone reception is often poor across the property, but reasonable in the car park.
3. Assistance dogs are welcome across the whole property, non-assistance dogs are welcome in the car park only (no dog waste disposal bins are provided)
4. The house is built on a sloping site, some rooms are small so large bags should be left in the lockers provided at the house entrance.

Arrival & Parking Facilities

1. Trerice is accessed from the A3058 (brown direction signs at Kestle Mill and also from the A30) up a narrow country lane (approx. 1 mile).
2. The car park has 10 disabled spaces; these are 66m from the reception building.
3. The main area of the carpark is surfaced with tarmac, the parking areas are gravel and there are overflow spaces on grass.
4. It is not possible to drop visitors at any closer point, however manual wheel chairs are available to borrow from visitor reception.

Visitor Reception

1. The visitor reception building is of stone construction with wooden floor and ceiling.
2. The entrance is up a single step with an inward opening door of 900mm wide. The reception staff are on hand to open the door or to come outside to save users having to negotiate the step.
3. The reception desk is 750mm high; clipboards are available to provide a lower writing surface if needed.
4. The membership sign up area has 2 chairs (no arms) for visitors to use, the table height is 730mm and clipboards are available to provide a lower writing surface if needed.
5. The reception building has natural light from 2 windows as well as fluorescent tube lighting.
6. Apart from the 2 chairs available at the membership sign up table there is no additional seating available, the room is very compact, there is an iron garden bench directly outside the exit door which is 800mm wide (note that there are 2 steps that descend to a door to the left of the exit from reception).
7. No induction loops are available
8. 2 manual wheelchairs are available for loan, booking in advance is advised.

Reception entrance

House

1. It is 66m from the car park to Visitor reception and a further 35m to the house entrance.
2. The surface on the path to Visitor reception and the house, is gravel and has an uphill incline.
3. The house entrance is level, but there is an iron grating that is 1000mm deep that has to be crossed.
4. The entrance door is manual opening, open inwards and is 1200mm wide. During opening hours the door is permanently open.
5. To access the house there is a door at 90 degrees to the entrance which is 880mm wide; volunteers are on hand to assist with access.
6. The Great hall is lit by natural light from a large window; this room contains armour that can be tried on along with games and puzzles to try. Because of the level of activity the noise levels can often be high.
7. From the Great hall, the Drawing room is accessed by 3 steps with a hand rail on the right hand side. The light levels are much lower than in the Great hall. There is no wheelchair access to this room.
8. The Drawing room is lit by natural light, however the light levels are controlled and are considerable lower than in the Great hall.
9. From the Drawing room, stairs go up to the first floor; however there is level access to the first floor via an alternative route.
10. There are volunteers in each room and also on hand to assist with access to the first floor.
11. Powered mobility vehicles are only able to access the Great Hall, first floor access is restricted to manual wheelchairs only (2 are available to borrow if required)
12. Access to the first floor is via a sloping grass path then through a door that is 780 mm wide. There is a metal threshold plate that is 60mm high that has to be crossed and 2700mm from this doorway are stairs to the ground floor so care needs to be taken.
13. Depending on the mobility of individuals, this will determine which parts of the first floor are accessible; this will be discussed on a 1 to 1 basis before access is provided.
14. There are seats for visitors to use around the house, these are identified with red cushions, most have armrests
15. There are no lavatories in the house, they are located 35metres away, adjacent to the Barn restaurant, details have been listed at the start of this guide.
