- Fold your piece of paper in half, and press along the fold
- Make small crease about two fingers width from the top left hand corner. Make another mark the same distance from the bottom corner.
- Now fold along the line and press it flat.
- Turn your folded paper over then fold the top piece over so it matches the other side. Press along the fold.
- Turn the kite upside down, and make a hole at the top of the kite about 1cm in on the section of paper sticking up in the air. Make it go all the way through the paper.
- Thread some string through the holes you made earlier.
- Open the kite and find a paper straw to stick across the widest part.
- Make some tails for the kite
