HELFORD
Cornwall

Introduction

- Powders Cottage is a large, 1930's, wooden bungalow nestled into a wooded cliff at the head of a creek. It is set in a uniquely private rural location far from the road. The views to the front over the Helford River and Frenchman's Creek are spectacular.

Arrival & Parking Facilities

- The cottage is down a single lane farm track at the end of a single lane road with occasional passing places. The farm track is hard packed earth at the beginning but changes to twin tarmac paths with grass centre (single lane still) about halfway. The large

Parking and turning area, of hard packed earth and stone, is above the cottage, in front of the wooden garage.

Getting in (and out) of the cottage

- The combination safe containing the front door key is on the front wall of the garage, to the right of the door. It is recommended to bring a torch to set the correct lock combination on arrival. Key to be returned to safe on final departure. There is a push on/off light switch beside the safe which operates the low level lamps illuminating the complete pathway down to the cottage – this switch is 2-way with another switch just inside the cottage front door.

- The downward sloping pathway is grass and compacted granite chippings and approximately 2metres wide by 50metres long. This is followed by a, curving, downward stairway of 800mm wide stone slabs. There is a rustic wooden handrail to one side and each of the 20 steps is roughly 400mm deep and 200mm high. This stairway ends at the level area surrounding the cottage. There is a step, 150mm high, up to the part glazed wooden front entrance door which opens inwards into the Kitchen. There is outside lighting which is part of the pathway illumination system.

There is a grassed area to the side of the path, just before the stairway, which is where the rotary dryer is together with the compost bins.
