1. Get to know a tree

Our gardens and parkland are full of beautiful trees. Tall and small or old and new, there are so many to see!

Our oldest tree, the sweet chestnut is nearly 300 years old! Can you find it?

Here's another clue, this tree has the best view of the old Victorian front door!

22. Find some funky fungi

The damp weather is the perfect habitat for fungi to grow in all shapes and sizes. How many different kinds can you spot hidden in the grounds? Here's a clue, fungi love the open lawns of one of our walled gardens.

6. Go welly wandering

There are plenty of places to wander in your wellies here! Explore the woods by the lake or navigate your way through the jungle in our gardens.

12. Have fun with sticks

The chilly October wind has left the ground scattered with sticks. What can you make with them? A den? Or perhaps a raft to float on the lake! Let your imagination run wild.

16. Create some wild art

Nature has provided us with lots of opportunities to make your own wonderful wild artwork. Take a pocket full of leaves, a conker or a pine cone and see what sparks your creativity.

44. Watch a bird

This time of year, our feathery friends are finding food for the winter months. See how many birds you can spot in the grounds. You can find a pair of binoculars in our explorer backpacks to help you along the way!
